

A high-angle, wide shot of a rugged mountain valley. In the foreground, a winding asphalt road follows the curve of a river. The river is a milky, light brown color, typical of glacial meltwater. The surrounding mountains are steep and rocky, with various shades of brown, tan, and grey. In the distance, a range of jagged, snow-capped peaks rises against a sky filled with heavy, grey clouds. The overall atmosphere is one of wild, untamed nature.

PREP - WEAR, CARRY, FITNESS

- This is a moderate to difficult trek and will require physical strength
- Recommendation to get physically fit is to start working out at least a month before the trek.
- To gain stamina, you can try Cardio and running along with stretching every day to strengthen your muscles and work on your flexibility.
- If you are able to Jog 5 kms in 30 minutes, your stamina is good to go.

While on trek –

- Take chocolates, chewing gums etc. Due to low oxygen levels you will feel tired easily, that's when chocolates and energy bars will come to your rescue.
- Stay hydrated. Drink lots of fluids. Avoid drinking alcohol as it can cause dehydration. Acclimatization causes fluid loss, so drink at least 4 to 5 litres of water per day.
- Eat your food regardless of not being hungry, for high altitude acclimatization. However, eat light.
- Avoid tobacco, alcohol, sleeping pills and other depressant drugs.

What to carry

- Trekking shoes: Carry proper trekking shoes with good grip and ankle support. Do not carry sports shoes.
- Three layers of warm clothes: Carry a fleece jacket (for warmth), a padded jacket(for warmth), and a hard shell jacket(for snow and rain).
- Two/Three trek pants: Carry quick dry material(nylon-polyester) trek pants. Denim/jeans and shorts are not suitable for trekking.
- Three t-shirts (collared /dry - fit): Full-sleeve quick dry t-shirts. Add a compression layer if you sweat too much.
- Thermals: Carry thermals (top and bottom).
- Sunglasses: Sunglasses are mandatory. There will be a lot of snow on the trek, which can cause snow blindness.
- Cap: At high altitudes, the sun is extra harsh, so carry a cap to protect yourself. For the night, you can use a woolen type.
- Waterproof hand gloves: Carry waterproof gloves as they will get wet if you touch snow.
- Socks (3-4 pairs) and a pair of woolen socks: Apart from two sports socks, you can take a pair of woolen socks for the night. For the trek, use quick dry material socks.
- Headlamp/LED torch: Mandatory. Headlamps may be quite beneficial for keeping your hands free.

- Raincoat/Ponchos: At high altitudes, snowfall and rain are quite common, and it's mandatory to carry a poncho so that you don't get wet. The trek will continue as planned, even during rainfall. Your poncho should protect you from the rain.
- Daypack (20 liters): Daypacks are needed to carry water bottles, lunch boxes, and personal medical kits in case you decide to offload your backpack.
- Lunch box and water bottle: All participants must carry their personal lunch box and a water bottle.
- Toiletries: Just carry mouthwash, sunscreen, and a small face towel as toiletries.
- First Aid Kit: Carry blister tape, crepe band-aid, pain spray, and a few important medicines, as it's always advisable when going into the wild. Make sure that you update the team before taking any medicine (even for painkillers and steroids).
- Electronics: Power Banks are quite beneficial for the trek.
